IDENTITY GUIDE · FIRST EDITION · NOVEMBER 2026

01 · THE IDEA

Where two great strokes meet.

For three decades, Alzayed has stood where things meet: the world's great names and the Syrian market, European wardrobes and Syrian sewing floors, cloth and bread, industry and property. The identity draws that meeting in two letters.

The A and the Z are the first and the defining letter of the name. Cut in a classical Caslon, the A's heavy right leg and the Z's heavy diagonal meet at a single point on the baseline: two strong strokes from two directions, one foundation. Around them, a quiet system drawn from cloth and metal: claret wool, brass, ivory cotton, cypress green; a serif with three centuries of printing behind it; and room to breathe.

Timeless

A classical letterform, not a trend. Nothing in the system dates it.

Theirs

Their initials and their two languages, set as equals.

Strong

A monogram that holds at 16 pixels and on a building's façade.

02 · THE MONOGRAM

A and Z, joined on the baseline.

Drawn, not typed

Both letters are Libre Caslon Display's own outlines (SIL Open Font License), the Z set 120 units into the A and the two united into one shape.

The meeting point

The dashed lines cross where the A's right leg lands and the Z's diagonal begins: the one detail that makes the pair a mark.

Small-size cut

Below 64 px (favicons, app icons) a second master thickens every hairline by 2.6 % so the letters survive.

The name in two scripts, as equals.

PRIMARY: THE BILINGUAL STACK. THEN THE ENGLISH STACK, THE ARABIC STACK AND THE TWO WORDMARKS ALONE. THE MONOGRAM NEVER STANDS IN A ROW BESIDE THE NAME.

04 · SPACE AND SIZE

Room to breathe.

Clear space

On every side, at least x: the height of ALZAYED's capitals in the lockup.

Smallest sizes

Stack 120 px / 30 mm wide. Wordmark 90 px / 22 mm. Monogram 16 px with the small-size cut.

Grounds

Ivory, paper, claret, oxblood, ink. On photographs, only over a calm area, in ivory or brass.
